Introduction

Hello and welcome to The Prologue. The intentions of this book is to bring little parts of our philosophy under one cover that I feel are aspects that would do well being somewhere for quick recall and inspiration when it's required. Personally I hate having to flick through books when I'm looking for a certain piece of text, and it can be quite frustrating when you simply can't find it, and you end up dog-earing or creasing the book in the process which only intensifies your annoyance.

This book is here to be kept in car glove boxes, handbags even back pockets to carry around with you to give you something to pick up and flick through if you need that little drive, that little spark of inspiration in your day. I know some days (especially Monday mornings) a little inspirational quote can go a long way to improving your outlook for the rest of the day.

For individuals who are already well versed in our philosophy, this book will be a handy little resource bringing the Guidelines, Systematic tenets and the averments under one cover, along with a list of the concepts with the page numbers and what book in the collection it can be found in. For those new to our system, or those who are curious, its intentions is to show little parts of our system, brief overviews of the concepts, hopefully giving you enough to go and do some more research and truly excel the self though our concepts.

To make this book even more unique, at the end you will find four blank pages with the heading “notes” this is space for your own mindfood. Fill those pages with your own quotes, your own little sparks of inspiration that you can go back to and use to aid the self when you have the need, then just like our system with no two individual’s paradigm being the same, no copies of this book will be the same.

So to end this introduction, I hope you find this short publication useful and it fulfils its intentions of being that handy little resource for you to use at will, and to you who are new to our philosophy, I hope it inspires you to really go and take a deep look at the self and utilise our concepts and create the perfect paradigm for you, and maybe even become an affiliated member of the Church of Rational Satanism.

Now go hold your horns high, be proud and Hail Thyself.

About Us

SATAN REGNAT, ET VIRTUS RATIONI
INTERIUS

"Satan reigns to reason, and the power of the inner"

Rational Satanism is one of the most adaptable and progressive philosophical systems out there that all can connect to.

Rational Satanism holds on to logic and rationality, being able to see past delusional doctrines and religious propaganda and harness the “self” to our personal advantage. We do not deny humanity’s need for gods, but we keep it rational and internalize one instead of worshipping an external being.

The doctrine of Rational Satanism can be divided into many unique concepts belonging to this organisation. The cornerstone concept of the philosophy is what we term, 90% 10% Thinking, the 90% is the natural pragmatism that reigns and represents the Rational Satanists way of life, and the 10% which is set aside for Ritualistic means and actions that hold no practical applicability in the 90% of your everyday life. Only during intellectual decompression will actions in the 10% serve any purpose during the acting of your personal or group psychodramas. This is a defining point for the Rational Satanist, without fantasy there would be no reality, but we use both to our personal advantage, by simply leaving the fantasy in the 10% locked in the ritual chamber. This allows for the study of a more metaphysical nature, if that's something that gives you personal gratification, but the Rational Satanist understands it is complete fantasy and does not fall into the trap of making it reality and living a lie. Writings from the occult and religious genre will always fall into the "what if" category, we can't prove what is written, and we can't dismiss it either, but what we can exercise is our common sense. The 90% 10% is simply the base fraction of the concept, depending whether your personal outlook verges on objectivity or subjectivity, the fraction simply changes through a paradigm shift to a fraction that suits your system. You can find an explanation of this concept in the second of our books, followed by a greater explanation of its adaptability in the third book in the collection.

This concept is now combined with more concepts unique to this organisation called Satanic Mnemonics, S-Theory and S.A.T.A.N.

These three concepts have been injected into the core of our philosophy to provide the individual with a limitless form of self-exploration, by providing a pragmatic way to draw information from various sources to create your system towards an individual model dependent reality and make Satan an even more personal part of the self. These concepts can be found in the third, fourth and fifth books in the Rational Satanism collection.

Within the confines of this house of the worthy, there will be no hierarchy, as improvement of the self has no boundaries. What we do offer is an internal hierarchical system that belongs only to the individual and provides a personal ladder that you climb at a rate you are comfy with as you build your system; this is called the 8 Satanic cognitive realms.

Critical thinking is the key to success, and the knowledge you can attain from members who have much experience within Satanic and occult communities will give you a valuable tool. You will also have the option to become an affiliated member and get more involved in the organization, take part in our philosopher's accreditation course or even start your own chapter. Individuality is the key within Satanism, so joining the Church of Rational Satanism is not conformity; it's simply being part of a representation of what you believe. And as you learn how our concepts work you will see that conformity is impossible, you don't conform to the system, the system conforms to you.

We are Rational Satanists; we know what it means to be truly enlightened in par with our true worldly views that can be backed up with reason, science, logic and cold hard facts.

What is a Rational Satanist

What is a Rational Satanist? That is a question that there are no generic answers to. The systematic progression involved in the paradigm renders no two systems ever being identical; each Rational Satanist you ask that question to will always give different points of views pertaining to their system. This may seem confusing to someone new to the path, someone who is looking for solid answers to exactly what the system involves, or how it could ultimately benefit them. To help to answer this question I will cover some of the foundations that appear in the Rational Satanism paradigm that the Rational Satanist will be using to craft their system and excel the self to the best it can be.

The Rational Satanist is on a constant drive to betterment by using logic and rationality to champion the self while ascending to the internal godhead that's contained within us all. Be it Satan or any other figure the archetype takes, it's what resonates with you that's important. We are adversaries against anything that stifles progression through conformity, which is sadly also evident in the Satanic community with many organisations claiming to be the one generic system. The foundations of the paradigm make the Rational Satanist flourish with adaptability so the individual will never lose the self to the system, there will never be a set way to design your path it will always be your way

To help craft the Rational Satanist, we have unique concepts designed for individual interpretation and complete flexibility. The 90% 10% Thinking concept is a unique system that the Rational Satanist uses to adapt the system with their personal outlook. That concept utilizes rational thoughts and logical reasoning in the higher portion of the denominating fraction that is our daily usage, the percentage we must use daily to gain the upper hand through heightened perception that comes from our system. The smaller denominating fraction is room left for metaphysical endeavours or things that we can't simply explain, it won't have any usage to the Rational Satanist, but dependent on the individuals personal outlook it may warrant further investigation, and that investigation may even filter through the faucets to the higher percentage acquiring some pragmatic usage. 90% 10% is simply the foundational base fraction for the Rational Satanist, individually dependent, the fraction can shift with the individuals thought process depending on how they craft their system and the amount of metaphysical endeavours they indulge in, it may be 70% 30% or 60% 40%, it's a moveable fraction that belongs solely with the individual.

You saw me mention investigation above, and in the rational satanic paradigm we have the S-theory concept that is the pragmatic system of creating theories and investigation from various sources, this concept is a fourth side perception pertaining to the system that allows the individual to craft a model dependent reality, removing any chances of cognitive dissonance and excelling the self. These concepts are all outlined in the Rational Satanism collection of publications.

The Rational Satanist has many more concepts in their paradigm that they utilize to help them grow uniquely ranging from a mnemonic system to aid the cognitive process, the s-type personality traits that you will discover and the 8 Satanic cognitive realms of internal hierarchy that provides a pragmatic growth system that moves with the individual, all designed to make the Rational Satanist a unique individual.

You may have noticed my usage of a word more than a few times in this piece, that word being unique, that's what the Rational Satanist is, unique. It would be irrational to be a Rational Satanist then conform to a system, that's why the Rational Satanist doesn't conform to a system; the system conforms to the individual.

If we now go back to the original question, what is a Rational Satanist, the answer is a unique individual, they have crafted a unique system from the Rational Satanic paradigm that is not like any other, the paradigm simply provides the foundation; the Rational Satanist has to build it themselves.

Do you want to be a unique individual?

The Concepts

Create and excel your system from the solid foundations contained in the adaptable Rational Satanism philosophy. No matter what your ideological outlook is on your Satanic path, the concepts in the system adjust to your way of thinking, providing a limitless form of self-exploration. Below is a very brief overview of the main ones in the paradigm

90%/10% Thinking

90% 10% thinking is the adjustable thinking fraction that provides a way to utilize objective and subjective ventures to a pragmatic advantage that will excel your system. The denominating fraction adjusts to your paradigm as you create your system and combines tightly with the S-theory concept allowing a more fluid approach to things that resonate with the individual.

Satanic Mnemonics

Satanic mnemonics is the memory system designed to improve the cognitive process by linking philosophical concepts to a number. This system contains 9 elements that the Rational Satanist can use in their paradigm to deal with certain situations, as well as providing useful philosophical tools that will easily be recalled from memory by remembering the attached number. This system also includes the 8 Satanic cognitive realms that is the personal hierarchal system used to grow your system at a rate you are comfy with, the nine element title explained in Futureproof adaptability are

- 1- There is only 1
- 2- Its 2 way
- 3- The 3rd Side
- 4- The 4th Dimension
- 5- 5s for success
- 6- The 6 R attributes
- 7- The 7 steps
- 8- 8 Satanic cognitive realms of existence
- 9- The 9th gate

S-theory (Satanic Theory)

S-Theory is an adaptable addition to the Rational Satanism philosophy by creating a fourth side perception and injecting a model dependent reality into the heart of your system. It's a melting pot of science, psychology and philosophy all pulled together to create a pragmatic form of theorising and investigation to all mind sets walking the Satanic path.

The creation of a model dependent reality removes the “what if” and “could be” aspects from the thought process by creating an overlapping theory system that allows information from various sources to link tightly together with other theories and facts that make up the model of reality that you live by, therefore giving the individual a solid limitless form of investigation and results that will excel the self by strengthening your system through your overlapping conclusions. This concept links tightly with the 90% 10% thinking concept allowing for the natural paradigm shift to accompany your MDR.

The S-Theory concept is also used for the creation of a physical MDR that allows for strengthening of body and mind as you continue to grow all aspects of the self.

S.A.T.A.N

The S.A.T.A.N. concept brings Satan back to the forefront of the system, making him as personal as ever with the next step of self-evolution through a hook system designed to strengthen the foundations of the system with the ability to transcend the archetype, and even become the archetype as you will be building your own Satan, making him a complete representation of self. Similar to the number mnemonic system, this mnemonic system uses letters to create a personal version of Satan with attributes that you add to each letter on top of the same hooks provided in the inspirational S.A.T.A.N in the foundations of the concept explained in the book.

The Concepts, where to find them

There are many concepts in the Rational Satanic Paradigm, but these are what we consider the major four that link together for personal advancement. Here you will find what book and what pages you can find the concepts in, and for ease of writing I will use RS for Rational Satanism

The Neoteric Guidelines

1 – With the internet readily available, logically give your opinions, if you don't then great minds won't be heard

2 – Pick your associations wisely; if someone wants to hear your troubles be wary of their intentions.

3 – Attacking those who annoy you with words can do more damage than a physical beating; Emotional pain can be felt much longer.

4 – Today the mating signal is not enough to base your reasoning for sexual advances on, evaluate the situation carefully.

5 – Understand that with Magic action not merely gesture is required.

6 – Satanism is not a cliché so don't live one.

7- Don't be overly arrogant, this is simply counterproductive and can lose you more respect than you can gain

8 – Don't make claims that you can't back up even if they make sense to you, you're leaving yourself open to unnecessary ridicule.

9 – A sense of humour is vital, we are social creatures, who would want to socialise with a boring humourless oaf?

10 – Be careful of what you decide to indulge in if it can ultimately affect your vital existence.

11 – Always stand your ground in all situations in life, mental or physical battles will be won one way or another

Averments of the Rational Satanist

I adapt and can easily accept change.

I am the personification of Satan, as Satan is self.

I am adversarial to that which stifles my progression.

I understand that the pursuit of greatness is lifelong.

I understand there are no gods other than the self.

I aim to excel the self through my personal Paradigm that is solely my unique system.

My Moral codes are individual dependent and created solely by me.

My life is mine to live how I see fit regardless of the opinions of others.

I understand that to give criticism I must be able to accept criticism as it only serves to improve my outlook.

I treat others in the manner I am treated by them.

I understand that all demons are man-made but have archetype value of self.

I understand that there is no wrong way in Satanism as it will always be my way.

I'm a unique individual.

I'm a Rational Satanist.

The Systematic tenets of Rational Satanism

The seven systematic tenets of Rational Satanism are not like the usual tenets you find in Satanic literature. These are not here as guidelines for pragmatic advancement of your life, they are not rules or ways of behaving. These tenets are the first in Satanic literature that are systematic and apply to the understanding of the system itself. The intention of this list is to summarise the key factors needed to excel the application of the system in to your personal ideology. These seven tenets are the main points of Rational Satanism that need adhering to for the systematic process to take its natural course and excel the self in all aspects. Have an understanding of this list and your system will flourish without little effort required.

Systematic tenets of Rational Satanism

1 - Rational Satanism is simply the philosophical foundations that you have to build on yourself

2 - Rational Satanism has transcended past the days of only using Satan as the archetype, choose whatever mythological being or figure best represents you.

3 - Have the comprehension that it's the objective fraction of the 90% 10% Thinking concept that we live our daily lives by; the subjective fraction only belongs to you.

4 - Have an understanding that the 8 Cognitive realms of internal hierarchy in Rational Satanism are yours to own and provide a pragmatic ladder of personal growth; it's not used as posturing.

5 - Understand that with the adaptable nature of Rational Satanism, your denominating thinking fraction changes in accordance with your system, it's built for individual interpretation and evolves with you.

6 - S-theory must be used in conjunction with the 90% 10% thinking concept. The 90% is using your objectivity from your model dependent reality, the 10% is storage for irrational subjective events and thoughts, S-Theory is the pragmatic creation of theories to investigate those events and find any usages that can be added to your model dependent reality.

7 - Your system should conform to your model dependent reality, which will be your understanding of the world around you built from personal investigations.

Satanic Mindfood

(Quotes & Comments)

Faith is no more than making a virtue without thinking, where trust is making a virtue from observed thinking from a thought that is your own.

Rational Pragmatic Satanism, now there are three words that go together like birds of a feather. We are logical and sound of mind, only judging theories from realistic, practical consequences, and don't really give a fuck anyway.... perfection.

From a rational point of view of internalising gods so we are our own, it is apparent that followers of Polytheism must be schizophrenic.

God as a 'being' or a 'concept'? The answer is in three letters from each of these two words, take the first, third and the fifth letter from being and the first three letters from concept and you have your answer... BIG CON.

Confidence comes from within, if you're only confident from possessing external, materialistic things, then you're slipping into insecurity.

I can almost guarantee when they stop producing Warcraft you will see a sudden decline in new magical concepts.

Lots of people will claim to hold a vast amount of knowledge, but how much of it could actually be called useful?

How can anyone ever say you're doing Satanism wrong? It's a path of individuality so in effect if they say you're doing it wrong you're doing it right, as you're doing it your own way.

Sometimes the best to retaliate is not to get even, but to get smart.

There is a thin line between having a rational reason for doing something, and having excuses so it seems you need to do it.

To be methodical or pedantic during ritualistic magic will serve no aims other than your competency to conform to habitual traits, not very Satanic.

If someone calls you selfish, is it not the one making the statement who is actually the selfish one; whatever action you have done to appear this way, it is selfish of the other person to deny you your happiness.

Enochian is said to be the language of angels and they are right; man created angels so it's only right that man creates their language too.

If you really think about it, the Satanist has nothing to gain getting into a debate with the righteous, as rationally, how can you debate your realistic facts and points against a fantasy concept in the mind of a deluded member of the herd? Use what you know to simply put subtle suggestions in their minds to make them think, it's a lot more effective.

The best time to see if a mutual responsible to the responsible is truly that is when the other party comes into money.

If anyone asks what Satanism is to you, the simple reply is "Satanism is me". What else can your answer be, after all, you are Satan.

If Mother Nature is here to nurture our planet then why do we have barren deserts and third world countries where no crops grow because of drought? That's not very nurturing now is it.

There is a difference in believing in something, and being a slave to it.

Spiritual Satanists who replace the term spiritual with independent need to understand that a changing a word doesn't make it any less ludicrous.

Some Satanists need to realise that the Tarot is not real, but can be a very useful lie.

Man's mind is the greatest magical tool of all; not only does it hold our knowledge; it's our means of survival, as self-preservation IS the highest law.

Spirituality is merely a subjective experience to the individual where subjective endeavors are preferred over objective ones.

Ok, so if it's so easy to kill someone magically like the traditional Satanists say, then why the hell am I still here, I've pissed enough of them off! Sounds like a traditional lie.

Of all the pictures and films I've seen of Adam and Eve, only their lower regions covered with leaves, don't you think it's strange you never see Adam with an erection when there is a nearly naked woman with him?

Satanists are no longer the beasts of the field; we are the beasts within a concrete jungle.

You get vampire lovers who will say vampirism is an illness, they are right; it's an illness of their minds.

Personally, I will always prefer objectivity over subjectivity, after all seeing is believing.

Isn't it strange how groups and organizations call themselves secret societies, when they are actually known? Maybe 'wannabe secret society' is more befitting.

What is the number of the beast, 666, 616? There are so many varying combinations of this. So when people ask me this question what would my answer be? Look at the way we view Satan; we take his name as part of ourselves, and see him as an external embodiment to aid us in our own idolization. We are the opposers and the adversaries. This makes us the beast, so my answer for the number of the beast would be my own date of birth.

No matter what the parasites on this planet say or do, they only matter to you if you let them. They want to create issues and get a response, so sometimes the best way of dealing with these insects is to do nothing.

What one person says can only be damaging by the way it is interpreted. Anything that is said or written can be twisted and misunderstood, sometimes for the better, but sadly, sometimes for the worse.

A sense of humor is severely lacking within Satanism at the moment, and what makes it even worse is that some Satanists actually believe that being an arrogant dick with an oversized ego is actually amusing.

Has anyone wondered if the man who created 'God' was dyslexic, and the fictional creator of the universe is actually a 'Dog, most probably a St Bernard.

The God fearing man isn't afraid of some omnipotent being, he's afraid of life.

People should realise that Satanists adhere to the NMFP policy - Not My Fucking Problem.

The pineal gland is NOT an eye of any sort! It's medical ignorance that's turned it into an object of mystical attributions.

Those who air their dirty laundry in public just want someone else to clean it for them.

The Satanist realises that revenge is a dish best served cold, and understands that revenge given to us while warm gives us the upper hand. Time, event, and circumstance.

There is no equilibrium in life, we have existence and that's all we share.

We must truly understand ourselves before we can be truly emancipated, and we must be aware that social structures are nothing more than nonexistent restraints.

The easiest way to legally commit fraud is to become a psychic or healer.

A more accurate term for Satanic magic is Satanic mentalism.

Revenge to the Satanist is just like a gun; you load your ammo but wait till you know your shot's going to hit the target before firing.

Psychics who claim ability but have to defend those claims obviously know, like the rest of us, that they are fake.

There are two sides to every story and you will find neither of them is completely correct.

For a Satanist to jump to conclusions shows they have not mastered the ability of reason.

To be anti-righteous is not being racist; it's the dogma we oppose, not skin colour.

For a Satanist to think they are always right means they have lost the important element of doubt.

Looking at spirituality, and words associated with fraud, they all seem to slot together nicely; scam, con, swindle, extortion, sham, double-cross, hoax, cheat, ploy, ruse, hoodwink, confidence trick, think I'm going to rename it 'Swindleality'

Some Satanists fail to realise Satanism is a life-loving philosophy, and following the counterproductive cliché clearly shows that they fail to understand the core concepts of the philosophy. Life is productive! Whatever happened to pragmatism; instead through their actions they cause themselves problems, which leads them to dislike life, completely un-Satanic.

It is now the 21st century; Satanism, free thinking and rational thoughts have evolved, so why do people still find comfort living the stereotype? Satanism is not dark, it's not bad, we don't have to use and like pictures of goats and anything demonic, and we don't have to say 'hail' all the time. What makes us special is being supernormal, and the cliché isn't very individual.

We can't deny that humans need faith in something and what Rational Satanism promotes is faith in oneself. We don't adopt anything without the use of logic. To have faith in yourself is a pragmatic advancement; to seek external faith will always be blind.

I think someone needs to invent butthurt Satanism. Too many are falling foul of themselves and developing large chips because they think life has done them wrong.

I was asked why Rational Satanists don't meditate. After laughing I replied that we live life, and enough of it is already wasted sleeping, why would we want to waste more time doing fuck all?

Psychiatrists seem to be putting their heads together as the amounts of different names for mental conditions now borders on the ridiculous; noticeably psychology seems to be a popular subject in this day and age. For counselors and therapists to make a living, they need to keep people ill, and it's very easy to link a personality type to a subjective mental disorder.

If you worry about something then subconsciously you're going to create that scenario yourself. Satanists have two words to stop this happening; fuck it!

We can only be truly happy within ourselves when we learn to see past society's expectations, and manipulate the social norms so they become a personal norm to us, otherwise our happiness will be a manufactured one.

To logically evaluate situations you must be able to utilise your reasoning in the middle of optimism and pessimism.

The fraudulent tricks of psychics, astrology and tarot shows humanity's need to know what life holds. What they forget is the future starts with the present; future events can't be foretold, but like a building, the present helps shape them with the foundations laid. People who take significance from comments told by these false perversions are altering their personal foundations, rendering the whole build susceptible to subsidence. Strong foundations all come from the self, unaltered through any means, and what makes it solid is not how you think your future is, but how you act and react to situations now and in the future that will shape it.

Every time that something regarding religion is spoken of, it contains such outlandish claims and very extreme scenarios. So in my eyes, religion is practically nothing more than hyperbole.

Remember psychics only exist because of the creation of religion; they created the part that needed to live on after death. Psychics are just a modern day spin off of the soul concept.

The Satanist can seek perfection but really knows they will never find it, as the element of doubt is equally important.

Never leave the best till last as if you do it may be too late to enjoy it.

Humanists are concerned with the welfare of Humanity; Satanists are concerned with the welfare of the self. Humanists only trust the scientific method and deny the metaphysical, The Satanist embraces both to advance. The Humanist doesn't use an archetype for heightened awareness; the Satanist takes the psychological aspects of an archetype and uses it as a heightened representation of the self. Humanism makes ethical decisions based on concern for others, The Satanist makes ethical decisions based on concern for the self and impact to only those they hold close. Humanists see the god concept as irrational; The Satanist embraces the godhead as a rational representation of the self. Humanism rejects the idea that knowledge can be found in what they call special books, The Satanist with the usage of the occult can find knowledge from books and apply it for pragmatic advancement. The Humanist lives within social structures, the Satanist can look outside those structures and see them as the non-existent restraints that they are. The Humanist isn't adversarial they just don't believe, The Satanist is adversarial as a natural trait. Humanism is Atheist; Satanism can be considered I-Theist. Not really hard see why Satanism cannot be Humanism is it, and yet the question still gets asked.

If you can't explain something short and concisely, then you have no idea about what you're trying to say.

For the black flame to burn, you need to keep stoking the fire.

We are all architects who build our system on solid foundations, to follow a system that's built higher than the foundations means you're just renting someone else's property, not owning it.

Satanism has no room for leaders, as Satanism has no room for followers, we are all equals.

Life is a game of chance; we have the tools to roll the dice with a calculated effort that will bring the best chance of success.

Putting the word modern in front of something doesn't make it new.

Opportunity doesn't come knocking unless you give it a reason to come to the door

Those who use Satanism simply as a facade to make their perversions and behaviour appear to be accepted are no better than the righteous that have their gods to turn to for forgiveness afterwards.

Satanism has no need for another Bible, there is only one and we have LaVey to thank for it, He made the name public for us, now we are simply branching out the tree

The gift of the gab is a must have trait for the Satanist, you must be able to sell ice to the Eskimos to really advance with the application of lesser.

The Satanist who lacks self-control is a Satanist who lacks understanding, that lack of control is predictable and simply a weakness.

Counterproductive pride is still the biggest hurdle for many Satanists to overcome, simply as to clear the obstacle you have to take a good look at the self, and many don't understand what's looking back.

Reputation is one of the greatest methods of acceptance there is, it's the hardest thing to build but the easiest to knock down, so always evaluate your actions.

Although speaking our mind is a great attribute to have, in modern society we have to be pragmatic in the application of what we say.

You can argue a situation from a rational standpoint till you are blue in the face with someone who doesn't have a rational attitude; the facts will have no effect.

The beauty in the Rational Satanism philosophy is its foundational simplicity, the 90% 10% concept is the pragmatic thinking fraction, S-

Theory is the pragmatic means of investigation, and the model of reality depends on you.

A hierarchy can never work in Satanism as we learn at a rate we are comfortable with without the need to posture a position.

Through your beliefs you can experience what you are searching for, but that doesn't mean its reality.

Science and philosophy both have inherent flaws, what S-Theory does is fill in the gaps and pull it all together.

The Satanic philosophy is the greatest system of emancipation there is, it can pull you through old and new issues with new direction and insight, the psychiatrists want to count themselves lucky everyone doesn't utilize it, they would be out of a job.

As Satanists we create illusions as a form of manipulation, that makes us the magicians with the whole world our audience.

There is a fine line between confidence and insecurity, one is completely internal, the other is a misinterpretation of confidence by needing external means to feel it.

A Satanist without charisma is like a car without wheels.

What I find with many organisations is that there seems to be someone wanting to be top dog, selling themselves with the philosophy, Rational Satanism has no leaders and never will, It's here to provide a solid foundation of self-exploration by building on the philosophical systems we have injected in to it, and the Church of Rational Satanism is the representation of the philosophy where all are equal.

One thing we can thank the CoS for is creating an entropic disorder in Satanism from their closed minded views, and that has made the system flourish.

Anyone in Satanism who wants the words “High, Magus, Priest” or any other ridiculous title before their name really must have an inferiority complex, if you're confident in what you do then your name should surely be enough.

Satanism doesn't require teachers, individuality can't be taught, you can open the door to people but they need to walk in themselves, and you know how the saying goes, those who can't, teach.

To every big problem there is a solution, but to dwell on the issue disguises the solution as being another problem, think, decide, and act.

As Satanists we are adversarial in our nature towards anything that goes against logical reasoning, but a new trend of adversarial attitudes have spawned in Satanism that causes argumentative delusion by seeing everything as a personal challenge of authority, very counterproductive.

If you look too hard between the lines you can find symbols, shapes and images that link from any source to appear to have significance, this is not a personal discovery, it's simply Apophenia.

Mythology is not only enjoyable to read, it has the potential to aid the Satanist in the archetype creation, and that makes myth pragmatic, fantasy bringing purpose without believing what's read.

You hear people adding many tags to their belief system, you have Satanic Luciferians with Buddhist overtones, Dark pagans with Satanic resonance, the tag list can be never ending as it seems they add the resonance with another system to their personal belief title. With utilizing S-Theory it removes all the need for system prefix words. Through investigation of other belief systems you are taking that which resonates with you and adding it to your model dependent reality. The theories that are already overlapping in your system will strengthen your outlook of reality when adding portions from other systems, which will then filter from your model dependent reality to the 90% of your personal thinking fraction. Even subjective ventures taken from other sources can strengthen your system as by adding them you are strengthening your subjective workings that will also filter to pragmatic usage. This is all designed to excel the self to the best it can be, and all this is being done by using the philosophical foundations of the Rational Satanism system, so all you will ever be no matter what resonates, or what you feel you are leaning more towards is a Rational Satanist, as you're simply building on the foundations that the system provides.

It's obvious when the concept of Satan or any other bad guy was created; they were basing the attributes on human nature.

Don't fall in to the trap of overthinking, or you could miss what's right under your nose.

The Satanist doesn't hope things will happen, they do what's needed to make it happen.

To be a Satanist you don't have to talk the talk, simply walk the walk.

There seems to be a trend in Satanism where conflict is being created for no reason, arguments over what ideology is right and wrong staking claim to their personal piece of turf, there really is no point to this argument at all as we are all Satanists, and it's all our turf.

You will never be truly socially confident until you stop caring what others think.

Sometimes you have to do what you want to do, not what you think you must do.

When you think something is morally wrong ask yourself, is it by your morals or society's manufactured ones.

The room for self-improvement is the one room you will never finish decorating.

The Satanist holds high the black flame and leads the quest for the discovery of knowledge to craft an individual personal system of complete individuality.

There is no easier tool to organise life than wisdom.

When you adapt to the known and unknown while crafting your personal Godhead, the Earth will then become your throne.

In modern society it's often questioned if our will is actually free, truth is we are as free as we allow ourselves to be.

Evolution of the mind leads to evolution of knowledge, and that is the path of success.

You may feel that some of your ideas are mad, but there is always a fraction of reason in madness.

Cognitive evolution is vital for the Satanist, and improvement is the logical form of change.

The word “rule” should never be used in Satanism; to follow a rule is to conform to it.

Although what some people may think, subjective thoughts and forms will never manifest in to objective reality, only objective results may be seen.

A man with laughter on his lips has the best grasp on life; a sense of humour is his proverbial armour.

Satanism is what's on the inside, it's a personality trait, Looking Satanic on the outside will achieve nothing.

To be called a cunt is a complement and shows you're doing something right.

Until you look in to the mirror and understand what's looking back, you will never understand who you truly are.

Perfection is a goal, but one you will never achieve and realistically don't want to.

Those who live in fear are not living at all, fear can always be overcome. Like a child who pushes boundaries, simply as fear doesn't exist to them yet, don't let it exist in later life either it's nothing more than a state of mind.

I'm starting to think that they should drop the word "Common" from common sense; through observations it appears it's not very common at all.

If wine is the blood of Christ then he must have died from alcoholic poisoning.

When subjective workings are applied you can never give credit to the system, just the results.

Metaphysical workings are like art, they will only ever be objective to the artist.

To retaliate successfully with words one needs a successfully acquired vocabulary.

A Satanist has no need to try to be edgy to prove that they are, because they are in fact proving they are not.

Satanism has no time for excuses and we don't have time for the people who use them.

Logic is the beginning of wisdom, and insight is the end product

There comes a point on your journey down the left hand path where yelling Hail Satan no longer becomes a rebellious act, and this is where your true journey begins.

Your aesthetic is yours, there is no Satanic fashion only the self-image that represents you as you wish to be perceived

The word “Cant” should never be used in a Satanic system, It’s your personal created system that you can do whatever works for you, there is no cant, it’s always do.

When you are consulting the Runes you are consulting the self...the authentic self. The self that knows the answers even when we get in our own way.

It's all well and good asking why and asking questions as long as you are willing to listen and understand the answers given. Just because you don't like the answer that's given does not make it wrong, some facts and truths are hard to stomach when you have been living a lie for so long.

Don't be afraid to change and alter your system even if you have already had a paradigm shift, it will free up valuable mental space and is nothing more than an alteration of your 90%

10% values

Being adversarial is not about arguing every opinion out there, there are things that can't and won't affect you, save your intellect for the things that matter.

Satanism is designed for the self in a way that you get out what you put in, you can't be spoon fed.

There are pros and cons in every situation in life; the pragmatic view is to turn the cons in to pros instead of simply picking up on the negative to make a point.

There is a great misunderstanding in Satanism that loses the quest for self-improvement with a battle of what they are against.

Too many people link the indulgence aspect of Satanism with Aleister Crowley's 'do what thou will shall be the whole of the law' and think it gives them the right to be an arsehole.

Hail Thyself
